IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a design to reduce them to absolute Tyranny, it is their duty to throw off such Government, and to institute new Government. We have submitted to a long and patient sufferance the above abuses, and have borne them with a patience which borders on the verge of rebellion, but now we are forced to declare that we have no alternative left but to throw off the yoke of this oppressive Government. We have petitioned, we have remonstrated, we have supplicated for redress, but in vain. We have petitioned by our Representatives in common Assembly, and by our Messengers to the British Parliament, and by our Deputies to the General Assembly of Great Britain, but in vain. We have, therefore, no choice left but to declare that we have no other alternative left but to throw off the yoke of this oppressive Government, and to institute new Government. We have petitioned, we have remonstrated, we have supplicated for redress, but in vain. We have petitioned by our Representatives in common Assembly, and by our Messengers to the British Parliament, and by our Deputies to the General Assembly of Great Britain, but in vain. We have, therefore, no choice left but to declare that we have no other alternative left but to throw off the yoke of this oppressive Government, and to institute new Government.

We, the United States people, are now enjoying the kind of life provided by the oldest democracy on earth. Freedom has kept us together, and since 1776, the beginning of our republic, the American people have made the country great.

George Washington, better known as "the Father of our Country" was a strong believer in democracy. He, like so many in his time, believed in democracy so strongly that when offered a kingship by the colonists, he refused.

Washington was not alone in his ideas about a republic. A group of men who were staunch believers in the new country made up the First Continental Congress. There was no time for fun. The new country already had problems and had to be taken seriously.

Perhaps one of the greatest places of our freedom seeking government was Independence Hall. A great deal of our history comes from within its hand-shaped brick walls. Some of the most important and historical documents of our country were drawn up and signed in this historical site.

Political leaders were not the only believers in democracy. Although only about one third of the population participated in the battle against England, those who did, although tired and battle weary, fought bravely and finally won America's independence.

Symbols were as important to liberty and freedom as actual battles. The Liberty Bell was a major symbol of freedom to the revolutionists and still sits in the Smithsonian Institute, heralded as "the bell that tolled for liberty."

Men weren't alone in the fight for independence; women too played a major role. Betsy Ross put together the flag which now stands as a symbol of freedom to the entire United States of America.

This period was filled with great men who believed in the cause of freedom. Among these men were a few special individuals. Ben Franklin, a scientist, an inventor, a politician, a common man, was hailed for both his genius and his political cunning.

1790-1846

From about 1790 to 1840 was a period of growth. Although the locomotive wasn't invented in the U.S., it did play a major part in our history. The "Steedbridge Lion" built in 1842 in Homestead, Pennsylvania, opened a whole new era in transportation.

One invention that is still doing very well was motion pictures in 1824. Although this picture typifies a silent film of about 90 years later, the villain-heroine scene has always been a favorite.

Another invention that did much for our country was the telegraph, invented in 1838 by Samuel Morse. The forerunner of the telephone, the telegraph made it possible for a message to be carried further and faster than ever before.

Although this era was generally a time of growth, it was interrupted by a war. The Mexican-American war was another fight for independence. This time it started with Texas. One of the most remembered incidents of bravery in history was the Alamo and the most remembered hero of this brave stand was Davy Crockett.

One of the first labor saving devices that was widely used was the sewing machine. Although it couldn't sew a zig-zag stitch, this 1846 invention was highly praised by its users.

What is remembered as the darkest day of our history was the period from about 1861 to 1865 which was not only a time of civil disaster but also the bloodiest five years of our history.

In the Civil War (1861-65) every man killed in battle was an American. Often whole families were divided by the call for soldiers, some going north and some south. Although it was a war we wish would not have had to happen, it was the formal end of slavery in the United States.

These troubled five years would have been too much for most men, but one man rose to the occasion and left his mark of greatness on our history. Abe Lincoln is thought of mostly as the great president who freed the slaves. On September 22, 1862 he wrote the 'Emancipation' Proclamation. When the South was defeated, the 'Proclamation' was enacted completely and all slaves of the United States were freed.

Generals and soldiers weren't the only heroes of the war years. Common folk also made a name for themselves. Harriet Tubman, better known as the conductor of the underground railroad, risked her own life saving runaway slaves across the Mason-Dixon line into free territory. Some went as far north as Canada to escape the grasp of the South.

After the end of the war the country started rebuilding and resumed the expansion that had been started by the war. The transcontinental railroad completed in 1869, linked a growing nation and set the stage for the move westward and the completion of our manifest destiny.

To further push our boundaries outward the U.S. bought Alaska from Russia in 1867 for 7.2 million dollars. Although then a sparsely populated area (and of seemingly little value), Alaska has since paid for itself through many natural resources.

An invention that proved to be a great labor saver was the typewriter. In 1867 an American named Sholes invented a gadget which when keys were pressed, letters were inked onto paper. The typewriter has since become an invaluable asset to our businesses and our own personal needs.

1868-1892

Hiram 'Ulysses' Grant, a young cadet, was enrolled into West Point under the wrong name and had to keep the mistaken Ulysses S. Grant as his name for the rest of his life.

Grant worked his way up through the ranks and became a General in the Civil War. Abraham Lincoln appointed Grant as Commander in-Chief of the Union forces. Grant's forces battled bravely and on April 12, 1865 Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox Court House, and the war was over.

After the war, and following the term after Lincoln's assassination, Grant became the 18th president of the United States. Grant served two terms as president, but he was too honest and believing for his own good. There was much graft and adversity in his administration; however, Grant was not aware of the dishonesty of his subordinates. He retired, and after years of sickness he died an old and poor man. We will always remember him as a great leader and a good man.

Our country continued the years of social and technological development. Although the first phone invented in 1876 by Alexander Bell was much more crude than this model, the telephone helped link a growing country together, and slowly took the place of the telegraph. It is our major source of person-to-person communication today.

Where would we be today without the automobile? Although the gas-powered auto wasn't invented in the U.S., two brothers took on the task of assembling the first in America. In 1892 Frank and Charles Duryea ran the first gas-powered car in America. Although the American model was nearly 30 years later than the original German one, Americans soon learned the social and economical value of the automobile.

The final blow to the American frontier came in 1893, and it happened right here in Oklahoma. On September 16, 1893, homesteaders came from all over the country to stake out a claim on a free 160-acre allotment of land. Some were a little too eager to get at the land and sneaked into the territory early to stake out choice spots. These people were called "snoons."

U. S. Grant — Christopher

Today we think little about those huge jumbo jets zooming across the sky every few minutes, but before 1903, the air was still a virgin territory. On December 17, 1903, two brothers flew the first successful airplane. Orville and Wilbur Wright took their airplane to Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, and by the toss of a coin Orville won the right to the first flight. He flew 120 feet for 12 seconds, at 30 miles per hour.

Americans' great industrial strength was not realized by the rest of the world until World War I, when the huge industrial might of the U.S. helped defeat the axis powers. American G.I.s, or "Dough Boys" as they were referred to, played a major part in the ending of World War I. Although they were eager and courageous fighters, even the famed Dough Boys had to curl up for a rest in a damp bomb shelter or fox hole now and then.

After the war were some very prosperous times in U.S. history. Short skirts, flappers, the Charleston and blackmarket liquor were a few of the signs of the times in one of the most colorful and care free periods of our history.

It's said that all dark clouds have a silver lining but in the case of the 1920's the silver cloud had a dark lining. The 20's were not only a time of prosperity, but also a time of organized crime. Capone, Morgan, Dillinger, Bonnie and Clyde, and countless others terrorized people, and in some cases ran entire cities.

A man whom we certainly owe a lot to today was Clarence Birdseye. Today, one of the most convenient ways to prepare meals is by heating a frozen food. In 1923, Mr. Birdseye invented frozen foods and housewives could, for the first time, simply pick out a meal and "heat" it.

The 20's were more than a prosperous era, they were also a time of national heroes. Harold G. Gatty's "The Babe" was the most hailed hero of the 20's. The Sultan of Swat set records on and off the field.

Another of the great heroes of the 20's was Charles Lindbergh. In 1927 he became the first person to fly across the Atlantic. Upon his landing in Paris and his return to the U.S., he was swarmed by people who wanted a glimpse of the "International Golden Boy".

Unfortunately the prosperous and happy 1920's couldn't go on forever. 1929 was the end, at least temporarily, to "good times" in America. The stockmarket crash of 1929 brought immediate depression and hard times.

Charles Lindbergh — Kyle Hamm

The 30's were the worst times in American history. More people were out of work than ever before. But the depression wasn't just in the U.S., it was world wide. Here in the U.S., local government, churches, and charities set up soup lines to help feed the growing number of hungry Americans.

In such hard times brought a need for a great person to lead the country out of depression and back to a prosperous economy. Franklin D. Roosevelt, perhaps one of the greatest presidents in our history, put the stumbling nation back on its feet and started it towards a strong economy once again. Roosevelt was the only president elected to three terms in office and while serving the people started many new government programs, such as Social Security, which now, over four decades later, is still captivating the public.

In such hard times the public needed heroes and recreation to help forget their troubles. comic books provided the heroes and the recreation, and most importantly, cheaply. Such heroes as Superman and Spiderman, who could scale the highest buildings and battle crime, were the idols of every young boy in America.

Television, which now provides our super heroes, was started in New York City. The first station was built in 1930 by NBC and was followed in 1931 by CBS.

The end of the depression in the U.S. unfortunately was due primarily to the beginning of war. The American G.I.'s fought bravely and vigorously. Two films, captured by the U.S. in 1945, proved to be a damaging blow to Japan. A picture of marines raising the flag was used for war bond drives and rally posters.

The dropping of the atomic bomb was the end to the Japanese in World War II. The explosion at Hiroshima in 1945 marked the beginning of an entirely new method of warfare. The Atomic bomb, marked by its huge mushroom cloud, released enough energy to wipe out an entire city, and proved to be the forerunner of our present nuclear weapons.

The 50's brought more good times to America. They were the years of the teenagers bobby socks, duck tails, leather jackets, hot rods, and rock hops. Dances were big and bands were "hip," and everything was real "keen daddy o."

The 50's were also the years of giant steps in science. The computer slowly started taking over the tedious jobs and the average family was living better than ever before with more time for rest and recreation.

In 1960 our flag took on its present 50 stars. When Alaska was granted statehood it became the largest and the most northern state in the United States.

The 60's marked times of science and improvements in civil rights. About 1960 years after the Civil War, men were finally beginning to be recognized as men, no certain race, just men. One of the greatest leaders of our modern history grew from this era. Martin Luther King Jr. made huge and peaceful steps toward "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness for all men."

The 60's also marked the beginning of the space race. The U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. were busy launching and testing new rockets, moving for the first major accomplishment, a man on the Moon.

On July 20, 1969, America won the race to the Moon. Neil Armstrong, an American astronaut, became the first man to set foot on the Moon and as he did he told a wearying World, "One small step for man, one giant step for mankind."

The First Man on the Moon, Neil Armstrong

The 70's have been marked by change, violence, corruption, revolution, hate, and love.

The Supreme Court and the lower federal courts have made further and more liberal interpretations to the Constitution. They have entered the field of education by defining more precisely how integration will occur in major cities. This has necessitated busing children often far from home daily to go to school.

Disension has been evident in violence in schools across the nation. Along with Boston, Oklahoma City has captured the headlines — and U.S. Grant became the first high school with a fatality directly attributed to a racial riot.

We have seen the President of the United States resign his office to avoid impeachment proceedings. And this was after Richard M. Nixon had been elected in the greatest landslide a president in this country had ever seen.

We have observed the trauma of the famed Hearst family as their daughter 'Patti' was kidnapped, brain washed, and converted into a radical 'comrade'.

During the 70's we have seen many question ideals that we have been taught to hold dear. And often our idealism has been tested.

But we have seen beauty as we have come together to be a united people. We have seen understanding, patience and persistence replace much of the strife.

And in our own high school, we marked the celebration of the bicentennial of our nation by electing the school's first black Student Council president, not as token, but because he was capable. He did a good job — and we loved him.

As we culminate the bicentennial we are not without hope. We renew the past with respect and reverence, and somehow we acquire the inspiration of our predecessors — and we begin to see that their greatness and success came from hard work and prayer and a dependence upon a power higher than man. We solemnly, hopefully, and humbly realize that our success in the future will be won the same way.

OS GRANT
HIGH SCHOOL

We were ready for school to start. We thought all summer about our pre-enrollment and finally decided our schedule would never do. So we barraged the counselors' office and worked things out.

Sharon McFee and Karrie Corneli wonder if they are at the right annex. Clowning around on the first day of school are Mike Lambeth, Rhonda Orr, Diana Asher and Gary Stout. Taking care of the usual first day business is Mrs. Harriet Pulley, counselor.

Taking a break is important for your health and productivity. The best way to take a break is to step away from your work and do something that is relaxing and enjoyable. This could be a walk, a meal, or a short nap. Taking a break will help you return to work with a fresh mind and increased energy.

Whether we were working or playing, the thing that really added the color, the extra thrill of it all was the special people who influenced us and whom we influenced. These were the ones we loved today and we will love forever. These were our cohorts and our teachers — our friends.

Russ Woods and Randy Page shake hands even though it's tough being friends with the opposing team. "True friendships can even be with different races," say Janet Baker and Palsey Dennis. # PEOPLE

People. The human race. So alike yet so different. Short, tall, fat, thin, or just plain old everyday medium sized person. People are all original with different ideas and feelings. Without people where would the world be today? No smog, no traffic, no crowded cities, but look at the bright side — the earth would have no problems that needed solving. People add beauty, culture, and intelligence to a bland world.

When a school system operates under a court ordered de-segregation plan it isn't easy for anyone, and most people are acutely aware of student and parent problems; but few are conscious of the problems of being a "bused" principal.

The pressures of the position alone in a rapidly changing society are tremendous in the community with his own neighbors neighborhood, the pressures are compounded. All the communication gaps must be bridged — and the job is constant, not from sun up to sun down, not from September to May, but all day, all week, and all year.

But when one works out of his own

Whether people have always approved of what Jake Diggs has done as principal, they will have to admit that he has won their respect

Assistant principals Mr. Bob McCain, Mr. Harold Meredith, Mr. Dwight Jones, and activities director Mr. Jerry Rickerts try to figure out the easiest way to operate day absentees.

Numerous times Mr. Diggs attributed the smooth operation of the school to the work of his staff of assistant principals.

All fathers themselves and all devoted church-men, they were conscious of their duties to youths both for themselves and in the eyes of God.

When the going got rough — as it often did the past year — they bore the brunt of misunderstandings from all directions — the community, the faculty, and the students

It is probably true that money alone could never re-imburse them for the service they were required to render through the year.

Teachers really

Most teachers truly had their hearts in their work. Teaching in their respective fields was more a part of their lives than just another job.

This was true in the "required courses" as well as the more favored "electives" which assumed a wide range in the ever-expanding curriculum.

Jayne Thompson works just as hard on building props for plays as her students do. Ernie Daniels tests his students on the driving simulators.

Sewing teacher, Doris Thomas explains the proper way to fit a pattern. O. J. Thomas, music instructor shows the pianist the correct timing for the music.

Clapp, Jo Ann, financial secretary. Cook, Betty, attendance. Dies, Mary, attendance. Lee, Ruby, principal's secretary. McCalister, Gloria, library secretary. Torres, Elnora, attendance.

Essential to the functioning of the school and often taken for granted are the service staffs.

Maintaining vigilance over the building keeping everything 'picked up' was the custodial staff under the direction of Jack Baker who was new to school this year.

Providing a variety of menus featuring always nutritious selections were the cafeteria ladies under the direction of Iris Mooney who was also new to the school this year

Leaving still

Leaving behind all the things that are habit, all the good times and bad, is both a sad and happy time. Leaving fond and precious memories of childhood, and advancing into adulthood is a fresh, new start in the adult world. This year's seniors will be able to reach out, go their separate ways and strive for a successful life, but will always look back with quiet reminiscing of the years that made a chapter in their book of life — their high school years.

Graduation is an event which everyone anticipates for years. "Getting out" is all important no matter what. But when the time arrives, it is different.

It isn't the "great" culminating end-all event which was anticipated. Instead, it is a very solemn occasion — and nearly everyone had a lump in his throat.

Class ring on hand welcome sight for

JUNIORS

Decisions are so difficult. They're all so pretty, but Diane Brown finally purchased her class ring from the Herff Jones representative.

One of the most exciting prospects of being a junior was the chance to buy a class ring of one's own. This year's juniors, the class of 77, were no exception. Rings were ordered at the beginning of school and most were received before Christmas

For those who wished to order their rings from the school, Herff Jones was the company from which they ordered. Others chose to buy their rings from a jeweler. Either way, there were many styles, sizes, and colors to choose from

Juniors plan

All this school year, the junior class looked forward to spring when they would have a chance to participate in their first formal prom, the junior-senior prom. Plans were already in the making at the start of the year. Preparations were made for the big event by holding assemblies, plays, car washes, and selling various items in order to raise the money needed. Every year the prom is held in honor of the graduating senior class and is always the most looked-forward-to event.

Class of '78

This year was the first year for the "Class of 78" to have class officers, because in their freshman year no officers could be elected. The sophomore class officers got the ball rolling early in the year with the help of its planning committee by planning activities to involve the whole sophomore class and bring it closer together. The officers were Deby Suggs, president; Terry Brown, vice president; Laura Burkhart, secretary; Renee Sharpe, treasurer; Karla Forrest, Rep. at Large.

Among the many electives that students had to choose from, drivers' education proved to be, as always, one of the most popular among sophomores. In this class, students learn traffic laws and handling a car in motion. U.S. Grant is lucky in that it was able to have simulators, which are machines that simulate actual driving. Learning good driving habits early may help cut down on the number of traffic accidents in the future and the sophomores were more than willing to take part

Every once in a while you run into a gentleman who opens the door, and Brenda Langston and Shiela Parish just ran into David Riden the ninth graders. Great enjoyment was taken by being able to say, "Ooh, Freshman!" and having a friend agree. Your turn next year. Freshmen

Sixteenth

Those lucky tenth graders who turned sixteen during the school year were happy about doing so and especially enjoyed the fact of finally being able to drive. "Now we really feel like we're in high school," one sixteen year old sophomore was heard to remark after driving the family car to school. Now most important is the prospect of buying a car of their own, perhaps from their parents or perhaps buying it themselves. Either way, school has become a lot more exciting.

New freshmen

Another year brings another crop of freshmen to adjust to the "different" atmosphere of high school. Finding classes, joining sports and clubs, and taking insults from upperclassmen was all part of the ninth grade life. Making a change from a great big eighth grader to a little little ninth grader was a big blow

FRESHMEN

Not many Generals can "hide" in a locker, but Bryan Austin is about to help Raymon Alexander "fit." Bumping a ride is a switch for Tommy St. Cyr, but not for Don Bridges who gladly stops. Freshman officers: Robin Ruyle, representative at large, Candy Wood, sergeant at arms; Kim Wood, treasurer; Leisha Gibson, president; Sylvia Mora, vice-president; Gay Morphis, representative at large; Carol Elrod, chaplain Feeding the hungry ulcers isn't easy — especially on the front row where Neal Lowther sits. If one doesn't get caught she (Tony Jones) can splatter a little paint when "someone" isn't looking.

CURRICULUM

Curriculum is both specific and general. It consists of required and elective courses. Curriculum can either be a paved road to success or a bumpy route to boredom. For the good student who takes the required courses and strives farther for the individualized courses, curriculum holds the key to a successful and prosperous life after high school.

Math

Math is required for two years in high school but as much can be taken as is desired. To some, math is only a waste of good pencils. To others, those who happily carry their pocket calculators to class every day, math is a challenge which can be and is conquered. For those who enjoy math, Math II is not enough, but analytics and matrices provide more difficult and different problems.

Jeff Harris finds having three math classes requires three hours of homework every night.

Vocational

Vocational classes are to many students "the only classes." These classes, such as body and fender, auto mechanics, electricity, sheet metal, drafting, woodwork, and cosmetology, not only give a student classroom skills, but also provide valuable job training. The students can learn a trade which can be applied to a career after graduation. Whether styling a new hair fashion or overhauling an engine, vocational classes are a huge asset to both students and the society.

ORGANIZATIONS

School is a social place, a place to make friends and a place to do things (other than reading and writing and arithmetic).

Organizations provide a means by which extra-curricular activities can take place. Organizations, whether it be a club, Student Council, or band, make students feel more a part of the school and make school a more enjoyable place.

Students of the school are shown in a group photo, likely a class or team. The photo is a black and white photograph showing a large group of students standing in several rows outdoors. They are wearing light-colored uniforms, possibly school uniforms. The photo is mounted on a page with a decorative border.

STUDENT COUNCIL

For the first time in the history of U. S. Grant, a black president, Andre Francisco, was elected to Student Council. At the same time, Vanessa Walker was elected Vice President.

Mostly in the planning stage all year was a project called "Club-a-Rama." This involved representatives from each organization setting up tables and trying to influence as many students as possible to join their particular club. The selling of United Appeal bricks also took place this year.

For the first time the student advisory committee functioned under the sponsorship of Miss Maggie Luiz.

HUMAN RELATIONS

During spring break the Human Relations Club went to New York to have fun and "get it together." Each sponsor took 15 students. They went to workshops at other schools to help increase communication.

In May the club went to the Stars and Stripes Park with Northeast where they did role plays and other such activities. About 200 students attended.

To help teach trust and develop the senses other than vision, students in the Human Relations class blindfolded each other and led one-another around the school area. However, the Human Relations Club is not just for students in this class, but for anyone who is interested, and there are no requirements to join.

In the spirit of fun, and to bring students and teachers together, the club also sponsored a Dress Your Teacher contest for Halloween.

"Who's there?" exclaims Linda Haynes to Richard Black. Mr. Watson enjoyed his first place cake for best dressed up teacher. Human Relations class really gets one all engrossed. Beauty personified as Mr. Snyder and his student teacher dress for Halloween.

HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor Society initiation was held February 12, followed by a formal tea. Both parents and students participated.

Last summer, Dawn Golden, president, Mike Shepherd, Historian, and Kathi Fansler, a member, attended the 8th National Honor Society Leadership Workshop at Central State University. They, along with sponsors Mrs. Ann Douglas and Mrs. Vickie Bentley, participated in sessions designed to acquaint them with the necessary information about their offices and the duties they would be expected to fulfill.

Tutoring students was the major service project performed by the group this year.

Social activities during the year included a trip to the golf course, a pizza party, signature greetings and a Christmas party.

Mr. Cable assists Mike Shepherd and Dawn Golden in posting the eligibility list. All was not serious for the scholars when head sponsor Mrs. Chris Baugh dressed up for Halloween. Kevin Micule got into the identification card business, and Ricky Staton, Cindy O'Meara, Terri Todd and Jay Ball discuss plans for their volunteer tutoring.

MU ALPHA THETA

Debate, Speech and Drama Club students have been busy with the National Forensic League while outstanding math students went into the math club, Mu Alpha Theta for the past year.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Lester Snyder, the NFL tries to give kids an opportunity to compete in the National Tournaments. It is a requirement to be a member of the NFL in order to go to the tournaments.

Raising money to send students to the Nationals was their biggest project during the past year.

The physical as well as mental skills were tested in games at the Initiation and Perspective Members party which highlighted the year for Mu Alpha Theta.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Severlan Vaughn, the group entered the Scholastic Contest at O U in November and at O S U in May. They also entered a National Math Test.

LATIN CLUB

Many members of the Latin Club started their year by attending the National Junior Classical League convention during the summer.

The group attended a Greek dancing party given by the Putnam City West Junior Classical League in November.

In December they celebrated the Saturnalia, a Rome Holiday corresponding the Christmas. Toys were given to children, sweets and special dishes were served and gifts were given to the poor, to slaves and to friends.

To raise money, the group sold velvetized black light posters.

GRANT DISPATCH

Remaining unique in design, the Grant Dispatch was the only Oklahoma City high school newspaper with a whole page and a half cover.

Co-editors, Jeff Johnson, and Sherry Buchanan led the decision "to be different" although many judges advised against it.

Editors indicated that one of the main challenges for the year was handling school problems in a "mature constructive manner" rather than a "childish re-actionary way."

Newspaper editors are Rick Windord and Mark Buchanan. Feature editors were Anita McCullough and Nikki McLennan. Sports editor was Billy Bateman, and editorial editor was Monita Dendson.

THESPIANS

Thespians began their production year with "George Washington Slept Here" with all proceeds going to the Junior Class. The cast included in the lead roles David Simpson and Lisa Gregg, with Jayne Thompson as director and Charles Dodson as Stage Manager.

They ended, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Jayne Thompson, with a spring play.

In December the group held their biggest initiation at a Dinner-Dance at the Hillcrest Country Club.

At the close of the year the Thespians were still making plans for the June International Conference in Indiana.

And during the past school year the group had been busy participating in many contests such as the Greater Oklahoma City Spring Festival and the State and Regional Speech Contests.

FBLA

For the Future Business Leaders of America one of the year's highlights was the State Conference at the Camelot Inn in Tulsa April 1, 2, and 3.

Another highlight was the buffalo meat FBLA president Larry Bauman brought back after attending the Regional Conference in Rapid City, South Dakota. He brought back some meat for all FBLA members. At last year's National Conference, when Larry was only a junior, he won first place in parliamentary procedure.

At the Washington D.C. Hilton the FBLA will hold a National Conference June 18, 19, and 20. This is scheduled to coincide with the nation's bicentennial celebration.

To raise money the FBLA members sold items such as Christmas cards, candles, and metal social security cards.

DECA

DECA's State Leadership Conference was held on March 7, 8 and 9. In preparation for the competitive events, some students went to Decade, a workshop at OSU, on November 7.

Central State University sponsored a Mini-Conference on November 18. Students participated in sales demonstrations, job interviews, public speaking, display and advertising. Some students placed in these events.

Fun in the hay is what DECA had on November 21 on the hay rack ride at Pleasure Rama. Dallas was the scene of a field trip which the students took to observe the Apparel Mart and the Sears Distribution Center.

VICA

Contests highlighted the year for the Auto Mechanics and Cosmetology courses in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

Fund raising has also been a major objective for the Auto Mechanics Shop with raffles for tune-ups, a wash and wax, a car bash (wrech-a-car) among other things.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Gerald Christenberry the Auto Shop has been very busy with District and State Contests such as the Auto Mechanics Contest and the Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest.

The money from all their fund raising has gone for the expenses of the contests and their float trip at the end of school.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Greta Emanuel the group has had fund raising by selling candles and Christmas gifts.

Their projects included Thanksgiving baskets for needy families and answering "Santa Claus" letters from underprivileged kids.

Contests included "Holiday Hair Fashions" and Western Heights High School Bow Dry Haircut contest in Tulsa.

End of year field trip was also a highlight for the year.

RED CROSS — SAFETY RODEO CLUB

It was a busy year for the Rodeo Club as well as for the Red Cross and Safety Club.

The Rodeo Club participated in the homecoming parade, as well as in Jr. Rodeos such as the Fort Gibson, Fort Supply, Harrah, Rush Springs and the St. Louis rodeos. Some members have joined the High School Rodeo Assoc. "There has been a great increase of interest in the Rodeo Team this year, and we are all very proud of the club," commented Mr. Tommy Bell, sponsor.

CHOIR

Performances kept the concert choir hopping especially in December when they appeared at both Crossroads Mall and Shepherd Mall the Kiwanis Club, O&E and finally they starred in the school Christmas assembly before the holidays.

Additionally, they gave a Thanksgiving assembly for the school. Also, they appeared at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

In January they had a royalty banquet. They closed their formal year with contests in March and April.

Both the Freshman Chorus and the Mixed Chorus were in training for the Concert Choir.

They appeared in the Christmas program December 19 and finally in the special bicentennial program April 23.

BAND

The Marching Generals were occupied most of the year with parades, performances, and especially with raising funds in order to go to El Paso, Texas at Christmas time for the year's biggest event, the Sun Bowl.

There were 113 members in the band, including the drill team, drum majors, majorettes and flag corps.

They raised money for the Texas trip by holding various fund-raising events and selling numerous items such as T-shirts, candy, and raffle tickets. The band also sponsored the annual spaghetti dinner, bake sale and a Movie Night at 14 Flags drive-in. The band needed $10,000 for the five day stay in El Paso.

"It was a great experience," commented Mr. John Fuller, band director. "I believe each of us has gained something by reaching out and accomplishing something no one thought we could."

Pep Club had help from MASH again this year at the football games and nighttime pep rallies. There was a friendly competition to see who could show the most spirit.

The cheerleading squad participated in summer clinic in Norman, Okla. where they received two superior and two excellent ratings, and a spirit stick. To help the Pep Club raise money, the cheerleaders held a car wash, pop bottle drive and car hopped at the Sonic.

Pep Club president Kim Plaehn and the officers held a slumber party for the Pep Club and spirit boosters the night before homecoming. They tee-peed Southeast at the party.

FCA Girls O Club

Starting their third year was the Girls O Club with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes organized for the first time this year.

Highlighting the Girls O Club a year of promotion of school and team spirit was a membership party in November.

Any girl who has lettered in any sport can join the O Club," said new sponsor Miss Connie Ellis.

Raising money for Girls Sports was the big project for the O Club-during the past year.

"To let people know that Christianity and Athletics are compatible," is the purpose of the FCA," said coach Bob Starke.

Under the sponsorship of Coach Bob Starke, the group invited professional and college athletes to give talks to their members at the meetings.

Any boy who participates in sports could join.

Men in FCA get with the pep. Terr Worley and Terr Russell paint pep posters. Miss Ellis hands out cushions to O Club members. The girls go into basketball. Miss Ellis gives a pep talk to the group.

SCHOOL LIFE

School to many is a prison, where all there is to do is work, and to others it is a place to strive towards their future goals, but to all the life that goes on during and after school makes all of the work worth doing. School life is what binds the students into friends, long lasting friendships which endure for life.

Almost everything around us has a pattern, from fences to crowds of people.

PATTERNS PATTERNS

Life often runs in patterns and cycles. They may seem exciting, they may seem boring, or they may seem useless, but they are always present. Our own patterns and our friends' patterns make life worth the living. When these patterns intersect, the relationships we thrive on often result.

Get TOGETHER

Without friends the monotonous rhythm of school would never be broken. Our friends are the ones in which we confide, the ones we share our good times with. A true friend will always be there during life's ups and downs to help out. Even though they sometimes seem like our worst enemy, they keep us going through the school year.

Dating also plays an important part in the life of a person. Whether it's pizza after a football game or a night out on the town, dating can lead to more meaningful and lasting relationships.

Marcie Mellon and Les Smith never tire of talking to each other. (Long distance is the next best thing to being there.) Mickey Reeder and Jerry Moland look at golf equipment to help improve their games. ($50 for this heap of junk?) Buddy Crain, Pat Fitzgerald, David Knight and Andy Taylor prove that eating is a hog's favorite passtime. (What do you mean you spit in my Coke?!) Wayne Seeley and Terri Ebert find that keeping warm is as much fun as watching the football game. (Game? What game?) Playing in the park is fun for Carol Moreno, Mark Robinson, Stell Alvarado, Stan Wasser, Teri Suggs and Tony Shrouf. (Stop!! I wanta get off!!)

Tell it like it is--

In today's highly educated society, great emphasis is put on what we say and how we say it. Bumper stickers are now big business; the way we express our feelings on political or other current events, cautions about the driver, or support for a football team are expressed in short form on bumper stickers.

However, imaginations don't stop at the bumpers; students often carry their thoughts into the schools. Students often are caught expressing their ideas on desk tops and even bathroom walls. Graffiti has become a sport. Whether the lines are about classes, teachers, or just "John loves Mary," graffiti is both a pastime for students and a problem for teachers and administrators.

Various views are expressed in many ways through graffiti and bumper stickers.

Fashion is on the upswing in today's society. Several years ago the sloppier one looked, the more stylish he was. These days, however, clothes have the most color-coordinated look. More varieties of clothes are available today. A person can either dress very conservatively or he can go way out with some of today's crazy looks.

Whichever way one goes, his dress is important because his first impression is made by his clothes and good impressions are one of the things we strive for.

For girls only

Big purses are the latest style. Ready to face the cold weather is Odessa Moore. Denise Sandefer knows that feathered hair is easy to take care of. Lots of rings are always popular. The fashion from Hawaii-puka shells. Timely fashion ticks away. Shoes are a big part of stepping out in fashion. (This is fashion?)

Life can be miserable when jobs aren't available as Archie Knight well knows. (I know I parked my car around here somewhere.) Rolling in the dough at Sound Warehouse is Jack Talley. (Look, I just work here, I don't make the prices.) Jan Grove is one lucky enough to have an office job. (If this lady doesn't shut up pretty soon, I'll go crazy!!)

Keeping in shape while making money at Magic Mirror figure salon is Pam Shunkwiler. (I hate to tell you this, but it's sluck.) David Hunter finds himself surrounded by flowers which need to be delivered. (Oh no!!! A dreaded Mongolian Mud Thatcher has ruined this plant!!)

Jobs can come as a result of many various situations. They may be necessity or they may simply provide some extra cash. The different types of jobs available are just as numerous. They range from being a bank messenger to a sacker in a grocery store. Most students have night jobs but some of the luckier ones who get out early work in the afternoon and have the nights free. Whatever the type of job or the time they require, jobs are becoming very popular to U. S. Grant students.

Some of us got it...

A pep assembly wouldn't be a pep assembly without the band (I think something just flew in my tuba.) Michelle Baker practices her twirling for the next pep assembly. (Euell Gibbons was right, many parts are edible.)

"Baby" Watson coos at Mr. Barlow as he accepts the sword for best-dressed teacher on Halloween. (Lucky thing you're wearing Pampers.) The Junior class play packs the auditorium again. (Let's see the stripper!) Belinda Kirkpatrick stars in the fourth annual Modern Dance assembly. (He went that a way!)

Assemblies. Whether for a play, pep assembly, or talent show, all assemblies are big attractions. No one knows if the students attend in such huge numbers because they enjoy the assemblies, or because it's an easy way to get out of a few classes. No matter what the reason, assemblies are times of fun, excitement, and a little break from the grueling classroom work students are accustomed to.

Our Spirit's SUPER Rea

"Howdy, I'm Ulysses" a noted General says (Who is the goose that stuck this tag on me?) Generals throng to see the second annual Homecoming Day parade (Who was that masked streaker?) Strolling the halls on 50's day are Richard Alvarado and Laurel Kuehne. (Look at the dirt in his ear!) New additions to USG this year are mascots Lori Bojarski and Sheilyn Taylor. (Do you feel as stupid as I look?)

Howdy Week sponsored by Student Council is the week before the first football game. It starts the year with a lot of spirit and getting to know one another.

During the week of the Putman City game was known as Spirit Week, with the Seniors showing the most spirit on class dress alike day. But all this spirit put together cannot match that of the pep assembly. With the band playing and everybody yelling it lets everyone know that there is a game that night.

The most widely participated in activity is the day when everybody throughout the school wears their 1950 attire. The night is filled with rock and roll as the 50's come alive in the boy's gym

we'll never forget...

School has always had some bad times, but probably the worst incident in our school's history was the death of Randy Trum. It was tragic of course, but it was also senseless. The students of U. S. Grant High School will always remember Randy, whether they knew him personally or not, because his death made us all stop and take a long, hard look at ourselves. No one knows the reason for Randy's death except our Divine Maker Himself, but at least it will serve as a constant reminder of how our own foolish motives can destroy another person.

Homecoming is the game when the most spirit is released. The entire season culminates into an explosion of excitement at school and at the game. Mums are ordered, royalty is picked, and the game is played, all with an air of ecstasy unequalled in any part of the season. Homecoming is a time when all seem to be swept up by the enthusiasm only students can produce.

HAPPY DAYS

One of the many floats entered in the Homecoming Day parade was this one made by Keller's Killers. (If you don't stop messing with the float, I'm going to body block you off the street.) Still disbelieving the announcement, Charlene Weeks is crowned Homecoming Queen by Russ Woods. (Russ, you're pinning it into my head!) Seniors Shurby Grider and Connie Black hope to burn the Spartans. (Look Mom, no cavities!) The sweetness of victory is tasted as the Generals make still another touchdown against the Spartans. (Hey, this anti-stain anti-perspirant really works!) Homecoming court of 1975 Leisha Gibson, Dana Magruder, Charlene Weeks, Carol Tepsic, and Joyce Berry (Smile, you're on candid camera!)

Horses were one of the added attractions to the homecoming parade. (Hey, which way did they go?) Winning first place in the float competition was Mrs. Long's art class. (They'll never find me in here.) Movie titles were most popular for float themes. (It's really going to be hot for Southeast tonight.) 1978 homecoming queen — Charlene Weeks. (It's windy up here.) Homecoming mums are still in style. (Oh isn't this wonderful!)

Highlights

Perhaps the highlight of the year is homecoming.

Everyone gets into the act. Homeroom, clubs, and any organized group can register and build a float. Everyone votes on his favorite beauty and queen.

After hours of hard labor everyone gets to enjoy the floats by at least viewing the final results at the big parade. And as a culmination of a satisfying day everyone sees the Generals perform on the gridiron.

Winter Queens

Both the basketball and wrestling queens were crowned in mid-winter events

Basketball queen Doris Brooks, reigned over her attendants Sherree Parker, senior attendant; Tammy Smith, junior attendant, Sharon Washington, sophomore attendant; and Susan Roberts, freshman attendant.

Diana Suchy won the wrestling title with Joni Walling as the senior attendant, Tammy Smith as the junior attendant, Debbie Tepsic as the sophomore attendant, and Kim Wood as the freshman attendant.

Grant's top royalty was crowned in an exciting January assembly. The surprised 1976 General was Richard Alvarado and his Lady was Kim Plaehn.

Nominees for General and his Lady were chosen by the senior class planning committee. They were then narrowed down to seven boys and seven girls and voted on by the entire student body. The royal court included Steve Knapp, DeAnna Norman, Mark Ellison, Laurel Kuehne, Tim Quinlan, Esther Esquivias, Russ Woods, Terri Ebert, Jerry Scott, Kim Smith, David Hunter, and Belinda Kirkpatrick.

SPORTS

Sports. Whether one is a spectator or a participant, sports is a good way to release emotions, experience competition, feel excitement, and have an all-out good time. Sports is excitement, and excitement is what one experiences when one is scoring a touchdown, or screaming "kill the ref.!" Sports is an outlet; some use it to relax in front of the T.V. and enjoy a Sunday afternoon game; some use it to better the other guy, accomplishment. Spectator, or participant, it's all the same — a sport is a sport, is a lot of fun.

The 1975-76 football team was crowned "City Champs." Losing three tough games to non-city teams the Generals romped on to destroy every city foe that they met.

The defense was the true backbone of the Generals' team. Joe Bob Wright, All-Metro linebacker, did much to beef up an already big and tough defense. In the middle there was Sid Haynes, big and aggressive. In the backfield were Jerry Scott, Randy Woods, and Rick Washington who must have seemed like three pieces of fly paper to opposing quarterbacks. Others, Rocky Clark, Russ Woods, Randy Shell, and Pat Medina put muscle into the Grant defense, and fear into the hearts of offensive running-backs.

Then there was the offense, not so lug, not so overpowering, but they got the job done. The offense started the year slow but really got moving at the end of the year, with a little help from quarterback Jerry Scott, and running-backs Phillip Williams and Mark Ellison, who both received player of the week recognition. The season seemed to culminate with the thrashing of John Marshall in the last game of the season, which gave the Generals the ownership of the "City Championship."

Head Coach Dean Choate watches the play on the field before sending halfback Deano Parton in with the next play. Mike Lambeth leads the way as the Generals run on the field via a pep club welcome. While Andy Taylor is being clipped, Joe Bob Wright puts the hurt on a Southeast running back. John King gives the referee a little help at signaling that the Generals have made another touchdown. Richard Alvarado and Gary Hazelrigg anxiously await the result of a penalty flag dropped on the field. Two Spartans try desperately to bring down a very slippery Phillip Williams.

Coach Dean Choate felt proud of the Generals' performance throughout the season. As for the season as a whole Coach Choate said, "After we got started we got a lot better; at the end of the year we could have beaten anybody."

Coach Choate also said that he thought "Jerry Scott showed good team leadership and helped the team tremendously. At the end of the year the offense got to believing in themselves and played much better ball. Defense played well; I was proud of them."

Coach Dean Choate summed up by saying, "We were definitely one of the top ten teams in the state. The night we played Southeast or John Marshall we could have beaten anybody."

Assistant coach, William Bell was equally proud of the Generals' season. However, he felt that the season could have been better. Coach Bell added, "It was disappointing that we didn't make the play-offs. Seven and three is a good season; however, 'City Champs' doesn't hold much water. We wanted the Mid-State Championship."

Coach Bell added, "The defense did a great job this season; they played very physically. If Jerry Scott could have stayed healthy we would have probably made it to the play-offs. I think that the two most outstanding players would have to have been Joe Bob Wright and Phillip Williams."

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

The freshman football team was crowned Champions of the All-City Freshman Football League. The "Little Generals" finished with a 7-1 record.

Scoring leaders for the "Little Generals" were Van Logan, 32 points; Rick Bateman, 26 points; Andy Patterson, 22 points; Mike Ross, 20 points.

Defensively the "Little Generals" held their opponents to only 40 points for the season. Defensive standouts for the team were Monty Wenthold, Dennis Proctor, Kenneth Janway, Alan Martin, Philip Hook, Buster Keasler and Robert Lawrence.

Jim Faurot, coach, said, "The team gave 100 percent all season and everyone on the team contributed greatly to the winning of the All-City Championship."

Ed Haynes pauses from tearing opposing quarterbacks apart just long enough to quench his thirst. David Lambeth leads the way for running back Phillip Williams to turn on a little of his blazing speed. Mark Edison tumbles in for a touchdown in the 40 to 6 Generals' romp over the Spartans. Jerry Scott picks off a Midwest City pass and turns upfield for a return. Mike Sorrels moves in for the tackle on an Edmund running back.

BASKETBALL

Although this season was an extremely dismal one, the outlook for next season (and a few after that) is very optimistic. Coach Starke, in respect to the near future, said this. "We have probably got the best freshman team around, and in the next few years we will be tough. We have plenty of size, speed, and ability."

The Junior Varsity also looked good. Although they got off to a slow start, they finished with a 9-9 record.

No one was a superstar on this year's basketball team, but all were good team players. "We played well as a team but no one stood out as an individual; it was always a team effort," Coach Starke added.

Inconsistency was definitely the flaw in this year's team; however, there does seem to be a silver lining behind this season's dark cloud.

Steve Alexander even tries grabbing a Capitol Hill opponent's hand, but he still can't get the ball. Warren Player outruns a Capitol Hill player to the basket and puts in an easy two points. Getting good position is the best way to get rebounds as Steve Alexander demonstrates here. Homer Dade seems to go at it the hard way, but two points is two points. Steve Alexander rips another rebound off the boards in the Capitol Hill game.

BASKETBALL

This year's General basketball team struggled through what proved to be a very difficult season. The cagers posted a 1-19 record; however, their record does not really portray the type of team that the Generals were.

"I was proud of the team. They never quit. They played their hearts out every game." This statement came from head coach Bob Starke.

Coach Starke also commented on a couple of the cager's best efforts. "We played well homecoming, we played well the entire game and it paid off. We did beat Midwest City. We also played a good game against Northwest Classen in the regionals. At that time they were number one in the mid-state."

Steve Knapp tries his specialty, however, on this particular play Steve was called for charging and the basket went for none. Assistant coach Roland Ross lets the referee know what he thinks of a foul call. Rick Washington hits a crucial basket, however. It was not enough as Capitol Hill went on to beat the Generals in a tough squeaker. Wendel Plichner strains for a tip against a high-jumping Capitol Hill opponent.

Wrestling

This year's wrestling team overcame a lot of adversities to make it through the year.

Despite having to use some youthful wrestlers and having some key injuries which caused some weights to be forfeited, the team remained tough in the mid-state. According to Coach Dea Choate the team will be stronger and more mature next year. The team should be especially stronger in the middle weights.

Top on the team's list of accomplishments was defeating PC W which was coached by ex-Grant coach John Magers.

David Knight demonstrates his superior strength against a bewildered wrestling foe. Archie Knight scuffles for position and at the same time looks for possible weaknesses in his opponent's defense. Lesly Roberson shakes hands with his counterpart before trying to demolish him on the mat. Ricky Wooten grasps his opponent and holds on until he can get better position. Lesly Roberson and opponent square off before moving in for an attempted hold. Ricky Wooten struggles to get his opponent in a vulnerable position.

Wrestling

Although the overall team didn't make a strong showing, several individual wrestlers stood out on this year's team.

Andy Taylor, David Knight, Ricky Wooten, Rocky Clark, Jimmy Cravens, and Pat Fitzgerald all placed in the All-City wrestling tournament.

Ricky Wooten and Andy Taylor returned to grab honors in the Mid-State tournament also.

Ricky Wooten was the only wrestler from Grant to qualify for the state tournament, and he came away with a second place finish.

This scene appears frequently for Ricky Wooten as the referee signals Ricky's victory. Scott Clark gets valuable riding time by staying on top of his opponent. Coach Choate checks over David Knight's ankle following a tough match. Ricky Wooten waits for his opponent to make a fatal mistake (letting Ricky grab his hands). Archie Knight scores here as he breaks away from an opponent's hold. Lesly Roberson attempts to dive his adversary to the mat.

TRACK

The track team was truly a star-studded one. Returning was Sid Haynes, state champion shot put, Rick Washington, sprinter and high jump, and Jim Cravens, long distance runner.

Track coach William Bell predicted, "We will win city." The team is held together by several strong individuals. Jim Cravens is probably the top distance runner in the area. Coach Bell summed up his prediction by saying, "We will place in the top three in Mid-State."

Chris Ball gets in some of the long distance running required by cross country. Charles Webb and Leon Thompson find that running with a friend makes getting in shape a little easier. Jess Caldwell tries to better his time on the 100-yard dash. Jim Cravens sets his pace for long distance running. Cross Country has got to be one of the loneliest sports of all, as Jim Cravens and Chris Ball see what Robert Frost meant when he said, "I have miles to go before I sleep." Charles Wheeler and Cecil Hayne have a little race to see just who is faster.

Baseball

Mid-State title contenders, this year's baseball team was certainly one of the best in recent years. Led by good pitching from returners Paul Heath, Danny Standridge, and Tommy Walkabout the Generals were a well-rounded defensive team, backed up by infielders, Perry Hahn, second base, Jack Talley, third base, Steve Knapp, shortstop, and Dave Hunter, first base, all returners. The offense was powered by the slugging of Micky Martin, catcher, and the sure hitting Russell Demeter, center field, not to mention the cannon of Don Baker, right field, who heads up the returners, leaving only one spot left for new coming players to fill.

"Putnam City, Del City, Norman, and Guthrie are always the toughest teams that the team plays," said Coach Castle, about the roster of this year's opponents.

Micky Martin demonstrates the swing that backs up the offensive power of the Generals' baseball team. Danny Standridge practices the control which is vital to a good pitcher. Shortstop Steve Knapp scoops another hot grounder. Second baseman Perry Hahn sprints into the scene to catch this high fly. The Generals' ace pitcher, Paul Heath, takes a break in the cool shade of the dugout. Junior Russ Demeter cuts an opponent off a home run as he climbs the fence to make this catch.

Swimming

The swim team got off to a slow start this year, losing their first three meets; however, Coach John Savage remained optimistic. "George Torres was a real bright spot this year, specializing in the breaststroke." This statement came from Coach Savage who added, "Curtis Johnson and Mauro Ferros also added much to the team."

Returning lettermen included David Tollman, Mark Chilcoat, Jeff Emerson and Keith Bryant.

There were also strong girl swimmers, including Liz Splawn, Sandy Tanksley, and Cheryl Letts.

Coach John Savage gives his swimmers valuable instructions during practice. Mike Featzer shows how he feels about coming in first. Robin Merideth and David Ellis wait their turn to try their skills at diving. Cheryl Letts displays her top diving form. They're off! Grant swimmers work out in time trials.

This year's tennis team was surely one of the best in the city. Last year's team ended up as Co-City Champions, and with four returning top players, this year's team was a very good one.

Returning lettermen included Greg Faulkner, Doug Brewer, Tim Moen, and Jim Renyolds.

"Greg will be one of the best players in the state this year. He needs to work on his consistency but he is always improving." This statement came from tennis coach Jim Farout before the season started. Coach Farout also added, "The most improved player over last summer was Tim Moen. With Greg and Tim, along with Doug Brewer and Jim Reynolds the team has a very strong top four.

TENNIS

GOLF

"Returners are the strong point of this year's team," said golf coach Harold Crooley. Led by returners Lawrence Field and Ricky Morales this year's golf team was a "very good one," explained Coach Crooley.

Last year's team finished first in the southwest division and finished sixth at a tournament in Fort Worth, Texas.

The toughest competition for the golfers were Midwest City, John Marshall, and Putnam City. Coach Crooley also added that the Generals "could play as well as any team in the state on any given day."

Golfers included Kelly Clark, Jeff Baker, Sam Kirby, and Robert Camp, sophomores, and Scott Williamson and Jim Brakebill, seniors.

Even body English won't make the ball fall for Lawrence Field, one of the stars on the Generals' golf team. Jim Brakebill shows what makes him one of the longest hitters on the team. No it's not raining, that's only Jeff Baker making another tough shot look easy. Ricky Morales shows why he's one of the best golfers on the General team as he blasts out of a sand trap. Scott Williamson tries his soft touch by lofting a chip shot up near the pin. Sammy Kirby starts out after booming a drive off the first tee at Hillcrest Golf course.

The girls sports program is increasingly becoming an excellent one. Girls compete in a variety of sports, including basketball, softball, volleyball, and track.

This year's girls' teams had practically all returners. With much experience the Lady Generals were among the top contenders in each sport that they participated in. A few of the returning stand-outs were Sally Black, Gigi Baker, Kim Smith, Terri Russell, Teri Wooley, and Regina Galbreath.

Kim Smith casually warms up before a girls' basketball game. Gigi Baker puts up two on a short jump shot in an inner squad game. Tina Little gets in a little batting practice while Betty Stanford catches in. Valdina Parton gets her pitching game intact for the girls' softball season.

Girls' Sports

Although the girls who made up the teams this year were mostly veterans, they were led by a new coach, Miss Connie Ellis.

Couch Ellis' finest job was probably done in softball. The Lady Generals' softball team rolled up a very impressive 10-1 record. The girls' softball team went undefeated until the All City Championship where they were defeated by Classen; however, the girls did place second in All-City.

Starters for the girls' softball team were Gigi Baker, Mona Bridges, Serena Boyd, Debbie Suggs, Tina Little, Valdina Parton, Teresa Matthews, Dore Schilling, Cheryl Harris, and Tammy Blancett.

Gigi Baker drives to the hoop for what she makes look like an easy lay-up. The Home Woman? No, it's just Dore Schilling giving a softball a hard throw. "for all your sewing needs"

We greeted a new assistant principal, Dr. Jerry Smythe, at the last minute and said good-bye to Mr. Merideth and Mrs. Bradley. We got ready to leave.

The first of the four photographs was taken in the first of the four photographs. The second photograph was taken in the second of the four photographs. The third
 photograph was taken in the third of the four photographs. The fourth
 photograph was taken in the fourth of the four photographs.

It was a busy week
getting ready for graduation.
There were so many things to do that all of us together couldn't get them all done.

I am not afraid of tomorrow
For I have seen yesterday
And I love today.
William Allen White
